I HAVE MIRA invited to share the lone cot,
That stands at the foot of yon hill,
Where the Oak's spreading branches o'er-shade the cool grot,
And murmuring runs the clear hill.

In front lies a lawn dotted o'er with sheep,
Beyond an impervious grove,
Where the breath of mild Zephyr encourages sleep,
And Turtles proclaim endless love.

The fruits of the garden beat fitted for use,
In grateful abundance are found,
While Flora in all her attractions profuse,
Perfumes the mild air all around.

From the Fowler's approach, from his murdering aim,
My care shall safe shelter afford,
The wood's happy tenants, by kindness made tame,
Pick the crumbs as they fall from my board.

The gentle SANGUILLA, with sweet simple note,
With the song of the Nightingale vies,
While sportive the Mock-bird, on air as they float,
Re-echo's each strain as it dies.

Such beauties as promis'd the most to invite,
What most, I have hear'd her approve,
Arrang'd is with care, and I hope, to delight,
Since the lesson was given by love.

O may the spot to my bosom so dear,
By her presence, with blessings encrease;
It needs but her smile, that my cot should appear,
The mansion of rapture and peace.

ALFRED.

BATTLE OF WAGRAM.

The following is the Austrian official account of the battle of Wagram, as published in the Austrian Gazettes, dated from the head quarters of the Archduke Charles the 29th of July.

Scarcely had the morning of the 6th began to break, when the enemy's army, composed of a force which, since the earliest times, has perhaps never collected in one point, appeared at the distance of a long cannon shot.

It was estimated at from 140 to 180,000 men. According to the latest statements of the emperor Napoleon himself, and his generals, it consisted of 180,000 combatants. On the part of the imperial Austrians, not quite 100,000 men were in the field on the day of battle. The attack began with a brisk cannonade all along the line, which the enemy answered by a far superior number of ordnance, and kept up till night, without interruption. The right wing of the Austrians made the most splendid progress. Adlaklaa was taken, and the enemy driven from Russenbrunn, Brectenley, and Herschstellen.

The enemy's cavalry on the left wing was completely routed, and field marshal lieut. Klenau, with six corps which he commanded in the room of field marshal lieut. Hiller, who was taken ill, penetrated on the enemy's left flank, as far as Aspern, Esslingen, and the town of Enzerdorf; made himself master of our entrenchments which we had abandoned the day before, took ten pieces of cannon, and some thousand prisoners, besides one eagle and several stands of colors. In the mean time, the French centre, where the emperor Napoleon was, did not move from the spot of Roschdorf; it was stationed there in several ranks, consisting of upwards of 60,000 men strong, and continually lengthened its right wing, opposite the left of the Austrians, till the latter was quite overwhelmed about noon by a mass of artillery. The corps which had been expected from Marchick did not arrive, and it was easy for the enemy to outflank our left wing; their violent cross-fire soon silenced our batteries.

Our 4th corps, which was placed on our extreme left was repulsed, and the heights in that quarter occupied by the enemy.

By this, the corps in the centre was not only prevented from undertaking the attack against Roschdorf, but was itself overwhelmed and forced to retreat to the causeway of Brunn, while the enemy had already gained Peksteis, and Enzerdorf, and was threatening the road to Walkersdorf, in the rear of the imperial royal army. Night put an end to the action. In the battle, nine pieces of cannon were lost, in the retreat none, and ten pieces of cannon, were carried off. The archduke John arrived in the afternoon near Siebenbrunn after the battle was decided, and then went back again behind the March.

The army continued its retreat till the 9th on the Prague road, as far as Ounterstorf. The rear had obstinate engagements daily, during which Korninburg and Hollenbrunn took fire, and the army was always ready for battle.

On the 11th, shortly before sunset, in the hottest of the action, when both armies were far the most part drawn up by facing one another, a formal conference took place, after some mutual messages, and at last a temporary armistice, the want of which was equally felt by both armies, after an uninterrupted conflict of upwards of 8 days, and being overcome with fatigue. In consequence of this an armistice was concluded on the 12th, by which hostilities are suspended for 4 weeks, and 14 days notice is to be given before breaking it. The Austrian army has taken a retrogade position in Moravia, and the adjoining districts of Bohemia, to enjoy some repose after the unheard of toils of the last eight days.

SPANISH NEWS.

[Translated from Spanish papers to the 19th of August—received at the office of the New York Gazette.]

Gazette of the Government, 15th Aug.

The extraordinary Gazette of the 8th instant, contains an account of the glorious defence which our troops made on the 5th, on the banks of the Tagus at Aranjuez, against the repeated attacks of the enemy.—The goverment has now the satisfaction of publishing the circumstances of that brilliant action, in which the discipline, valor and enthusiasm of the defenders of their country were so much distinguished. The whole nation will pay them the merited tribute of praise and gratitude, on reading the following official letter from General Don Francisco Venegas to the minister of war.

Most Excellent Sir,

At half after five in the afternoon of the 4th, I received a letter from the captain general Don Gregorio de la Cuesta, in which he communicated to me his determination to march on the night of the 3d, and follow the English army which had marched at day-break, in order to form a junction with it and face that of Soult which was advancing towards Plasencia. I immediately foresaw that my army would be attacked, as soon as Joseph Napoleon and Victor who were in Illescas and Maqueda, the former with 16,000 men, and the latter with 10,000 should be informed of that movement. That expectation made me go to Aranjuez at day break on the 5th, accompanied by the pricipal officers of the artillery and engineers, with several officers belonging to my staff, for the purpose of examining the position of these divisions, and pointing out the places which they ought to occupy in order to improve the advantages of the ground.

The brigadier Lacy whose division formed the van at the bridge Largo, had two leagues to march in order to repass the Tagus at the bridge de la Reyna, the only one fit to cross, and it being easy for the enemy to cut off that division, I immediately directed, that, leaving there a body of cavalry, he should fall back and post himself in the twelve streets. I there determined that in case of attack he should occupy the ridge of hills contiguous to Ontigela, which begins at Mount Farnassus, and that the passage of the river should be defended to the last extremity. These measures being taken, the only ones then required by the circumstances, I returned to my head-quarters. But scarcely had three hours elapsed, when I received intelligence from brigadier Don Pedro Augustin Giron, who by seniority commanded the three divisions, that they had just seen columns of the enemy's infantry, cavalry and artillery, upon the bridge Largo, some having already crossed it; and I successively received accounts of the encrease of their numbers, and that near the ford of Anover a great cloud of dust was seen; from all which circumstances I entertained no doubt but that the enemy intended a serious attack, and supposed that he had been joined in our rear by troops from Toledo, or the ford of Anover. To guard against all those dangers, I directed Giron to cause Lacy immediately to repass the Tagus, and destroy the bridge de la Reyna, to occupy the above mentioned position on the hills of Ontigola, and that after defending vigorously the passage of the river and the other positions, should misfortune oblige him to retreat, it should be towards Ocana, to which place I caused the fourth division to march and post itself in the heights which are on the left of the road to Aranjuez, with the triple object of assisting that place, if necessary, favoring the retreat of those troops in case of misfortune, and resisting the expected attack from Toledo or Anover, sending part of his cavalry towards that ford, to observe the troops which were reported to be there, and oppose their passage. These arrangements having been made, the attack took place, of which the following is the account given by the brigadier Don Pedro Agustin Giron. Most excellent Sir, on the morning of the 5th, being at Aranjuez, and having the command, owing to my seniority of the first, second and third divisions of this army, the first division posted at the bridge Largo over the river Xarama, in pursuance of your excellency's positive orders, began to retire from that point, and at the same instant a strong corps of the enemy's cavalry appeared on the hills de la Reyna, which charged the advanced guard of the division at that place; but as well that part as the remainder of the division continued its march with its accustomed gallantry and coolness.

The enemy advanced, and the division repassed the Tagus at the bridge of de la Reyna, and seeing a great number of the enemy's troops descending the hills of the same name, and no longer doubting but that his intention was to attack us, I ordered the bridge to be broken down, and took such measures as I thought most suitable for the defence of our important post. The brigadier Don Louis Lacy, with the first division under his command, was eligibly posted on some heights which protected the defence of the bridge de la Reyna: the troops of the second and third division were distributed at the other points.

(In the original is a long description of the manner in which the different corps were posted, which we omit as it would be unintelligible without a very minute local knowledge of the field of battle.)

These arrangements being made, the enemy appeared at half past two in the afternoon on the right bank of the river, and began to engage with a division of the third company of Sappers which hastened to meet them in the garden of the infant Don Antonio, and a moment afterwards with the whole regiment of Velez Malaga. In a short time the artillery commenced firing and the action became more general; the principal attack of the enemy being on the left, I ordered the first battalion of royal Spanish guards to go and assist the regiment of Velez Malaga, which after the example of its brave colonel was fighting with the greatest obstinacy. The battalion of guards commanded by the captain of grenadiers Ferrer, and led by the major general of division under my command, the lieut. col. Don Jose Martinez de San Martin, marched to its post, exposed (rather than make a short circuit) to a shower of grape shot, which though it wounded the lieut. col. D. Fernando Salamanca and several soldiers, did not in the smallest degree alter the tranquil and intrepid march of his corps at all times undaunted.

The enemy's fire became more and more brisk, and ours was in no respect inferior; the excellent regiment of Ecija stationed on the bridge Verde, fired with an ardor and celerity, which merited the praise and admiration of all brave men. The artillery with that superiority which they have already acquired over that of the enemy engaged with it, almost within pistol shot; the regiment of Alpujarras and three companies of Sappers sustained with the greatest tranquility the heavy fire of the enemy's cannon, and with that of their muskets punished the temerity of those who advanced. The regiments which defended the bridges de la Reyna bravely sustained the attack.

Such determined resistance in all quarters made the enemy give way, but a moment afterwards they again renewed the charge with more vigor upon the left and all the other points; but they met with equal valor in the defence. A seven inch howitzer, commanded by lieut. Don Juan Sequeda, was sent to the bridge Verde, and circumstances rendered it necessary for him and his men to pass between two fires in order to arrive as soon as possible at the place of his destination, which he did without hesitation with an intrepidity which does as much honor to that officer, as to the highly respectable corps in which he serves. The battery of the bridge of Barcas was reforced by an eight pounder from the second division, and its brave commander captain Don Miguel Antonio Panes having been mortally wounded, the command was taken by lieut. col. Don Gaspar Hermosa, who had accompanied Sequeda in the dangerous transportation of the howitzer to the battery of Saroas, with unequalled bravery and skill; nor must it be forgotten that in the interval of half an hour between the wounding of Panes and the arrival of Hermosa, the battery was commanded by corporal Vicente Navarro, who kept up the fire without abatement, twice silencing the enemy's artillery in presence of the commandant of the division, lieut. col. Don Alexandro Carbia, and particularly distinguishing himself. Another seven inch howitzer, placed in the grove which looks towards the islet, opposite to the road to the bridge Verde, did much damage to the enemy.

rangements having been made, the a k took place, of which the following e account given by the brigadier Don dro Agustin Giron. Most excellent Sir the morning of the 5th, being at Ara z, and having the command, owing to y seniority of the first, second and third ll that part as the remainder of the on continued its march with its accustom

The enemy advanced, and the division passed the Tagus at the bridge of de la greatest obstinacy. The battalion of ards commanded by the captain of grena

rs Ferrer, and led by the maior general division under my command, the lieut.
. Don Jose Martinez de San Martin, rched to its post, exposed (rather than ke a short circuit) to a shower of grape t, which though it wounded the lieut.
. D. Fernando Salamanca and several diers, did not in the smallest degree alter tranquil and intrepid march of his corps'
ll times undaunted.

The enemy's fire became more and more sk, and ours was in no respect inferior;
excellent regiment of Ecija stationed the bridge Verde, fired with an ardor celerity, which merited the praise and miration of all brave men. The artillery
h that superiority which they have alrea acquired over that of the enemy engag with it, almost within pistol shot; the ment of Alpujarras and three compa of Sappers sustained with the greatest quility the heavy fire of the enemy's non, and with that of their muskets pu ed the temerity of those who advanced.
regiments which defended the bridges
a Reyna bravely sustained the attack.
uch determined resistance in all quarters
e the enemy give way, but a moment rwards they again renewed the charge more vigor upon the left and all the r points; but they met with equal valor
he defence. A seven inch howitzer, manded by lieut. Don Juan Sequeda, sent to the bridge Verde, and circum ces rendered it necessary for him and men to pass between two fires in order rive as soon as possible at the place of lestination, which he did without hesi n with an intrepidity which does as h honor to that officer, as to the highly ectable corps in which he serves. The rv of the bridge of Barcas was re d by an eight pounder from the second ion, and its brave commander captain Miguel Antonio Panes having been ally wounded, the command was taken eut. col. Don Gaspar Hermosa, who ccompanied Sequeda in the danger portation of the howitzer to the battery roas, with unequalled bravery and ; nor must it be forgotten that in the val of half an hour between the wound of Panes and the arrival of Hermosa, battery was commanded by corporal nte Navarro, who kept up the fire with batement, twice silencing the enemy's ery in presence of the commandant of ivision, lieut. col. Don Alexandro Car and particularly distinguishing himself.
ther seven inch howitzer, placed in the e which looks towards the islet, oppo
o the road to the bridge Verde, did damage to the enemy.

The brigadier Don Luis Lacy, commandant of the first division, as soon as he observed the terrible attack of the enemy upon our left, being well assured that the post he occupied was safe, of his own accord took the honorable resolution of flying to our assistance with the division under his command.

Seven companies of the regiment of Alpujarras were sent to the bridge of Verde, the companies of grenadiers and chasseurs remaining at important points in the gardens of the prince.

The regiment of Ronda commanded by its colonel Don Joaquin Virues, had been sent to the garden of the infant Don Antonio, where it distinguished itself; the fire was most intense, the artillery and infantry fought with obstinacy, the cavalry commanded by that old and distinguished officer Don Diego Ballesteros, suffering with the greatest coolness the fire to which it was exposed, plainly shewed that it was ready to make the last effort, should circumstances require it; the greatest order and the tranquility of true courage reigned in all parts in the midst of the most dreadful fire, till at length the enemy, convinced that they could not overcome such firmness, and tired of an incessant and bloody combat, desisted from their enterprize, and retired, when it grew dark, from all points.

It is impossible for me to depict to your excellency the enthusiasm and intrepidity of the troops, who, in the midst of an intense fire, shouted the name of our beloved sovereign at the moment most suitable to a nation which is brave and ardently desirous of glory.

(Here follow the names of many officers who distinguished themselves. Vanegas's letter thus concludes.)

The loss which we have sustained in this action is 200 killed and wounded; and that of the enemy, according to the information we have received, 300 killed, and about 1000 wounded.

God preserve your excellency many years.

Arrived, ship Three Friends, Vanduym, from the Brazils, and 28 days from Cayenne. The only American vessel at Cayenne was the brig Minerva, of Salem, and so bad was the markets, that she could not sell, and intended in 3 or 4 days to sail for Surrinam. A few days since, spoke a sloop from Havanna for Rhode Island, and informed, that so glutted was the market there with flour, that one vessel had hauled outside the harbor, and threw overboard 800 barrels, to avoid paying the duty on it.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 16.

MR. SNOWDEN,

ON my arrival here I notice in your paper of 26th ult. a publication extracted from a Norfolk paper of the 19th, stating the arrival of the British schooner Margaret, R. Crookshanks, master, from St. Johns (N. B.) bound to Jamaica, in distress—and having "on the 11th, lat. 36, 15, spoke the schr. Fame, of Alexandria, from St. Bartholomews bound to New-York, who neither offered assistance, nor asked if we wanted any; but made sail and left us."—In answer thereto please insert the following affidavit.

T. SKINNER,
Master of the schr. Fame.

Alex. 14th Oct. 1809.

JOHN GIRD, part owner, THEODORE SKINNER, master, and JOHN GILPIN, mate, of the schooner Fame, personally appeared and made oath, that being on board said schooner on a voyage from St. Bartholomews to New-York, on the 11th September last, lat. 36, 10, a wreck was discovered, which we bore for, expressly to relieve—When near enough, T. Skinner first hailed, enquired her name, and the cause of her distress, and was answered, "The British schooner Margaret, R. Crookshanks, master, from St Johns to Jamaica, dismasted about a fortnight before in a heavy gale." On asking if the wreck was tight, answered, perfectly so—and from captain Crookshanks' enquiry recommended the Capes of Virginia as the best to steer for, being then supposed in the the inner edge of the Gulph Stream, and the wind favorable. Captain Crookshanks then requested if we met a pilot-boat to inform of their situation, which was promised—and no further assistance being asked, we proceeded on our voyage.

Sworn before me, at Alexandria, 14th October, 1809.

DIRECTIONS HOW TO USE

YARWOOD'S

Patent Washing Machine.

First fill the barrel half full of your finest cloths, then fill the bottom of the Reservoir with hot suds up to the side planks, turn the Crank backwards and forwards so as to make the cloaths fall the hardest against the sides of the barrel for about twenty-five minutes, then use the same suds with a little more soap and hot water for the next finest cloaths, until the suds are unfit for use, then second your cloaths in the same way with boiling suds, after rubbing a little soap on the dirtiest parts of the cloaths; then rince them in the machine in warm or cold water.

I WISH to sell, the unexpired leas of 8 years, from the 10th day of December next, in the elegant and commodious HOTEL I now occupy in Alexandria. This establishment is justly celebrated as affording the best accomodations on the continent, and to a man of attention and abilities in the line of his profession, cannot fail to yield a handsome fortune. The proximity of this property to the seat of government, being but about six miles from the capitol, over the Potomac Bridge, the growing importance of Alexandria, and the increase of the business of the house since the residence of the present occupant, all conspire to prove, that there is not a more eligible situation in the United States.

Attached to the tavern, is a well conducted coffee house, supported by a respectable subscription.

Together with an Insurance office.

There are at present twenty four yearly boarders of the first respectability, in the hotel.

The whole house is elegantly furnished, and to a person who takes the lease, the greater part of the furniture will be sold on the most reasonable terms.

JUST RECEIVED,

For sale ONLY by JAMES KENNEDY, sen. King street,

The following highly valuable Medicines,

Price 3 dollars per bottle.

Dr. Jebb's Nature's Restorative

A BALSAMIC CORDIAL.

THIS cordial so justly celebrated throughout Great-Britain and the continent of Europe, for its superior efficacy in the curing all disorders excited by nervous irritability, as well as in complaints of complete debility, whether arising from irregularities of living long continued residence in warm climates intemperate pursuits of excessive pleasure, or that destructive habit of inconsiderate youth which brings on so prematurely the infirmiest of old age.

In removing pulmonary affections, asthmas and all disorders of the lungs, it is the most powerful remedy ever yet found, and the relief it has afforded even in the last stage of consumptions, is without a parallel; with regard to its efficacy in this baneful, and unfortunately the prevailing disorder in this country (consumption) its superiority is such as to have supplanted every other medicine.

Those who in advanced life feel the consequences of youthful excess, will find themselves restored to health and strength, and all those melancholy symptoms removed, which are the general effects of such causes.

In short, animated by the uniform success this invaluable cordial has experienced in Europe, the thousands it has renovated, when bending under the pressure of nervous, consumptive or hypochondriacal disorders (many ttested proofs of which from eminently distinguished persons in this quarter of the globe, are now in the possession of the proprietor here, some few of which are herein published have determined the introduction of it into this continent, where its efficacies must soon become so prized as to make it considered a beneficent remedy not to be dispensed with bly those who are anxious to preserve or acquire their health.

The chief ingredient of this cordial is a plant whose rare and precious salutary virtues were well known to the Arabians during the 8th and 9th centuries, when that people shone conspicuous over all the nations of the world for their learning and skill in eradicating baneful diseases incident to the human frame, renovating infirmity to vigor, and restoring the sickly to sound and rosy health, and which, as known at this time by their descendants, and used and experienced as the most sovereign remedy for decayed constitutions, and every species of nervous disorders. This celebrated restorative plant has also been highly estimated for ages past, amongst the most enlightened nations of Greece, and considered by those wise inhabitants as one of the first of their blessings.

This cordial is also rich and fine in flavor most grateful to the palate, and the most enlivening to the spirits of any yet offered to the public.

ALSO,

Dr. Tissot's celebrated Gout and Rheumatic Drops

(Price, Two Dollars per bottle.)

NOTHING is of more importance than the preservation of health—this common lacep remark however is TOO OFTEN FORGOTTEN whilst we are active and strong—and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a stronger claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Gleets, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated—and hence every relief which can be administered is too valuable to be forgotten.—Those persons whose avocations peculiarly expose them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious always to possess immediate aid. Sea-faring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasans effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. To those who reside in or visit the West-Indies, and ther warm climates, they will be found upon trial to convey the most lasting service and will gradually destroy all tendency to disease in the human frame, and preserve health and vigor. Although a great variety of prescriptions have been published to cure the disorders enumerated above, none has yet equalled the GOUT AND RHEUMATIC DROPS of DR. TISSOT, which are celebrated throughout the European continent, and whose unbounded benefits are fully authenticated by certificates already published of gentlemen so well known in America, being of the first consequence in the state of Maryland: General Charles Ridgely, of Hampton; John Gibson, Esq. one of the directors of the Farmers' Bank of Maryland; John Macubbin, Esq. Mrs. Macubbin, his wife; and Mrs. Ryan, of Calton.

FORTY DOLLARS

If apprehended in the state of Virginia; Sixty if in Maryland; One Hundred if in the state of Pennsylvania, and secured in any jail so that we get them again—

Negroes Bob and Jim.

BOB is a likely well made fellow, about 20 or 21 years of age, rather of a tawny complexion, has a number of natural bumps on his face, large white eyes, which when spoken to are apt to shew plain, is about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high—his clothing when he eloped was an oznabrig shirt and trowsers, dark colored round jacket, and an old lead colored hat—is an artful cunning fellow.

JIM, about 23 years of age, black complexion thin visage, has on one of his knees a large scar, occasioned by the cut of an axe when young, a down look when spoken to, and large white eyes—his clothing not known—is about five feet seven or eight inches high.

We will give for apprehending either of the above negroes, twenty dollars if taken in Virginia, thirty if taken in Maryland, and fifty if in Pennsylvania, and all reasonable charges if brought home.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living in Brentown, Fauquier county, Va. on Monday the 4th of September, a mulatto fellow named DAVID, about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, about 25 years of age, has a cut or mark from the corner of one of his eyes, occasioned by the kick of a horse—he is a good waggoner and has been accustomed to work on a plantation.

He took with him one new outside jacket, of country cloth, black and white stripe and breeches of the same, several under jackets, among which was one Bennet's cord; he is a very dressy, artfull fellow, and will endeavor to pass as a free man, and change his dress; the frequently calls himself David Murphy.—I will give the above reward, with all reasonable charges, to any person that will bring him home, or lodge him in any jail so that I get him again.
